This is because no matter what you have read and studied and practised, it is what you have written in the answer booklet that matters at the end of the day. You get your marks for what the examiner actually reads in the form of your answers and the countless number of hours that you put in studying doesn't matter to him/her. So, it goes without saying that the art of writing answers that are suitable and most expected from candidates is an important one. The answer should impress the examiner and he/she should feel that the answers were written by a future judge. In all, 78 students attended the programme.
